A respectable number of Citizens of Fairfax county and others, having met at Wilcoxon's tavern, Fairfax courthouse, on Monday, the 19th of August, 1805, pursuant to an adjournment of a former meeting, to take into consideration the propriety of the establishment of a BRANCH of the BANK of VIRGINIA, in said county, in the vicinity of the town of Alexandria

THIS Meeting, being fully impressed with the many advantages to be derived from the establishment of a BANK in the vicinity of Alexandria—Resolved, That it is expedient to appoint a committee to draft a petition to the ensuing legislature of this state, praying for an encrease of the capital of the Bank of Virginia, and the establishment of a Branch of said Bank in that part of Fairfax county, immediately adjacent to the town of Alexandria.

TO THE PUBLIC.

IT is now a peculiarly painful task to reply to the publication of Mr. Enoch M. Lyles of the 22d ultimo; but respect to my own character and a due regard to the feelings of my friends render it an indispensible duty.

It was my intention immediately on seeing that paper, to lay before the public a full and complete refutation of the several charges & insinuations contained in it, and an exposure of the sophistical coloring there given, as well to the origin as to the progress of the dispute: but the following causes prevented my being prepared fully on the subject, till the very day previous to the one fixed on for our meeting;—It was not until the 27th July that I had an opportunity of seeing Mr. Lyles's publication, and on the 28th I received his challenge. Various arrangements then became necessary, which occupied much of my time and left me a very few days to apply for the certificates necessary to the refutation of the misrepresentations attempted to be imposed on the world, to my injury, by Mr. Lyles. They were however procured in time, and a statement prepared, containing such comments on Mr. Lyles's conduct and publication as I would, at that period, have been fully justified in giving to the world. I was however advised not to send it to the press, but to leave it in the hands of my friend, to be by him published should it be my lot not to survive the meeting which was to take place the next day. The fatal catastrophe of the morning of the 7th is known to the world, and is by me most sincerely lamented. A delicate respect for the feelings of his sorrowing relatives forbid my now publishing that paper, or doing any thing that can possibly add to the load of their grief, farther than a proper respect to my own character imperiously demands of me. I shall therefore confine myself in the following statement to a plain detail of the circumstances which produced the dispute, and of those with which it was attended in its progress. This, with the subjoined certificates, attesting the correctness of my narrative, will, I trust, place my conduct in a fair point of view, in the eyes of the world, and leave me fully justified in every step I have taken in this very unfortunate business, the fatal issue of which I shall ever regret, as the greatest misfortune of my life.

On the morning of the 10th of June last I was in company with Mr Lyles, Mr. F. Wise, and some others, in Mr. Bowling's tavern in Piscataway; in the course of conversation Mr. Lyles spoke of some ladies of my acquaintance in terms which I considered highly improper, and immediately expressed my disapprobation with some warmth; on which Mr. Lyles made an explanation apologising for the language he had used. I accepted the explanation and was fully satisfied.

On the 4th of July I was at an entertainment held in honor of the day, at Piscataway, where Mr. Lyles also was. We had spent the day together, without my discovering any change of conduct on the part of Mr. Lyles, or any circumstance which could induce a suspicion in my mind that there was enmity brooding towards me. In the evening the company left the ground where the entertainment was held, and with many others I went to Mr. Bowling's tavern, where there was to be a dancing party. I had been there only a very short time before Mr. Lyles invited doctor Hill and myself up stairs to a private room. Believing the invitation to be of a friendly nature and that his object was to partake of a social glass of wine, I cheerfully accepted it, and went up stairs. In a very few moments after I entered the room Mr. Lyles accosted me and demanded to know if I had asserted that he (Mr. Lyles) had spoke disrespectfully of the ladies of a certain neighborhood. I told him that I had said so, that he had certainly spoke in that style, but I demanded his author. Mr. Lyles refused to give me the name of his informant, and said that my assertion was false. I felt considerable resentment at being so treated, and particularly that Mr. Lyles should, to my face, deny what, at the very time, he must be conscious he had said, and in that state of mind did walk hastily across the room with intention of striking him. Doctor Hill interposed and prevented me, expostulating on the impropriety of our disturbing the ladies in the adjoining room; satisfied with the propriety of doctor Hill's remark, I walked back to my chair. In a few moments Mr. Lyles again began the subject, and again said, in a very irritating manner, that I had been guilty of a falsehood. Exasperated by this treatment, I hastily walked towards him, determined to chastise him on the spot. Doctor Hill again interposed and caught hold of me to prevent my striking. Whilst the doctor was thus endeavoring to prevent me from getting to Mr. Lyles, and was again begging we would not disturb the harmony of the company, Mr. Lyles had found a stick or cane, and very unexpectedly, both to the doctor and myself, struck one or two blows at me, part of which I received. Perceiving that it would not be in my power at that time to resent the insult to effect, I determined to adopt a different manner of obtaining satisfaction. On the 6th I wrote to my friend major Taney, who arrived at Piscataway on the 10th. On the 11th he did me the favor of waiting on Mr. Lyles with a challenge. He returned from Virginia, where Mr. Lyles was, on the 12th, and gave me the information contained in his certificate, viz. that Mr. Lyles had refused to accept my challenge, as he did not consider me to be a gentleman and on an equality with himself. It is true he did say, afterwards, he would consult some of his friends to know if they would recommend his meeting me and that if those friends should so advise he would let me know his determination by Wednesday the 17th. On receiving this virtual refusal of satisfaction, I did, on the morning of the 13th, forward to the press a note publishing Mr. Lyles.

From the foregoing statement, and taking into consideration the certificate of Mr. Bowling, and the latter part of that of major Taney, the inference, to every candid and unprejudiced mind, must be irresistible, that Mr. Lyles had spoken of ladies of my acquaintance in very improper terms: how else can his message to me by major Taney be accounted for, and how could it happen that Mr. Bowling's certificate should so fully accord with that message; and from the certificate of Dr. Hill it will be clearly evident that I never did or would submit to a caning.

I am charged with having been premature in my publication of the 13th July; but that charge will not be admitted, after an examination of what passed between major Taney and Mr. Lyles. I ask if it was possible to consider the answer reported, as in major Taney's certificate, in any other point of view than as an evasion of my demand of satisfaction; or if, being thus refused, I could consider the manner of his refusal in any other light than an aggravation of the former insult. It surely could not be supposed that I would remain silent for five days to await the result of an enquiry "whether Mr Lyles's friends should deem me worthy of the rights and privileges of a gentleman."—The course I pursued was such, I believe, as every man respectful of his honor under the same circumstances, would have adopted. I now close my statement, feeling entirely confident that I shall stand acquitted in the opinion of the world, as well respecting the charges and insinuations contained in Mr. Lyles's publication, as from having wantonly or designedly said or done any thing that ought to have caused the very unfortunate dispute between Mr. Lyles and myself.

JOHN F. BOWIE, JUN.
August 23, 1805.

(No. 1.)

I certify, that on the 10th June last, Mr. Enoch M. Lyles, and Mr. Francis Wise, were at my house, and that Mr. John F. Bowie, jun. was with them during part of the time they staid there; that whilst Mr. Bowie was with them, I happened to go into the room to carry some wine or brandy to them, and that I heard Mr. Bowie, as I was entering the room, address himself to them in language to the following effect:—"Gentlemen, take notice, the ladies you speak of are my acquaintances, & I shall hold you accountable to me for what you say respecting them." The words used were to the above amount, but whether precisely the same I have used, I will not be positive—I left the room and heard nothing further of the conversation.

Given under my hand this 3d day of August, 1805.

(Signed) B. BOWLING.

(No. 2.)

Piscataway, 1st August, 1805.

Having been called on by Mr. John F. Bowie, jun. to attend him as his friend in a duel that was expected to take place, between him and Mr. Enoch M. Lyles, of Alexandria—I did on the 12th July, as the friend of Mr. Bowie, deliver to Mr. Lyles a challenge from Mr. Bowie, demanding satisfaction as a gentleman for the insult he had received. The answer that Mr. Lyles made, at the time I handed him the challenge, was in the following words, or others to the same effect: "As you sir have been the bearer of Mr. Bowie's challenge, I will receive it, but I will not accept of it, to fight Mr. Bowie, I had made up my mind, before I left Piscataway, not to fight Mr. Bowie, in case he should challenge me." The reason assigned by Mr. Lyles, for not accepting of Mr. Bowie's challenge, was, that he considered Mr. Bowie not to be a gentleman. In answer to which I told Mr. Lyles, that as I was concerned as the friend of Mr. Bowie, I should expect him to be treated as a gentleman: I also informed Mr. Lyles, if he did not accept the challenge, Mr. Bowie would publish him as a coward. I delivered the challenge to Mr. Lyles, before he was out of bed—After breakfast we set out together for Alexandria; in the course of our ride Mr. Lyles observed to me, that Mr. Brooke, (the gentleman at whose house we had lodged the preceeding night,) had advised him to consult some of his friends, as to the propriety of his fighting Mr. Bowie, and that he should consult Doctor Semmes of Alexandria and col. Stewart of Maryland, and if those gentlemen thought he ought to fight Mr. Bowie, he would accept the challenge, but if they should give a contrary opinion, he should not fight him—I told Mr. Lyles, that I should not leave town until the evening, and that I would receive any further communication he had to make—In the evening I met Mr. Lyles in the street, and informed him I was about to leave town, and wished to know whether he intended to fight Mr. Bowie or not, or what was his final determination. He then told me he had consulted Dr. Semmes, who had advised him not to accept the challenge, and that on Sunday next he should go to Benedict, for the purpose of consulting his brother, Mr. Wm. Lyles, by whose opinion he should be directed, and that his determination should be made known to Mr. Bowie, on the following Wednesday, which was the 17th—Mr. Lyles also observed, that I might inform Mr. Bowie, that he was willing to do this, that what he (Mr. Lyles) had said about the ladies, should be out of the question, and required no apology, as it could not for a moment be supposed that he meant to convey any improper meaning by such expressions, but that if Mr. Bowie would admit, or be satisfied, that, his calling Mr. Bowie a liar and a rascal, originated from passion, he, Mr. Lyles, was willing to recall what he had said about Mr. Bowie.

I do certify, that the foregoing is a correct statement of the tranaction, so far as I was concerned.

(Signed) MICHL. TANEY, jun.

(No. 3.)

August 2, 1805.

DEAR SIR—I have received your letter requesting a statement of what happened between you and Mr. Enoch M. Lyles in my presence at Piscataway, which I'll endeavor to do as correctly as possible.—I was present in the room on the 4th of July, when Mr. Lyles called on you to know, if you had asserted things disrespectful of the ladies of a particular neighborhood, as coming from him, you answered in the affirmative, and then asked Mr. Lyles for his author—Mr. Lyles refused to give his author, and at the same time said, your assertion was false—You immediately left your chair, and walked to the opposite side of the room (where Mr. Lyles was seated on a bed) I believe with intention to strike him, but was prevented by my interference—I then expostulated with both of you and told you the impropriety of fighting in that place, as you would disturb the ladies who were in the adjoining room, and advised you to postpone your quarrel, until the day following, when you could have it settled—After reasoning with you some time you took your respective seats—In a few minutes the subject of dispute was again broached, and Mr. Lyles a second time told you, your assertion was false—You again left your chair and attempted to strike Lyles, I interfered a second time, and in seperating you pushed Mr. Lyles on the bed, my attention was then taken up in endeavoring to prevent you from striking him whilst in that situation, in the mean time Lyles got up, and with a stick or whip struck you several times.

The above I believe to be a true statement of what happened whilst I was present.

I am sir,
Your obt. servant,
(Signed) Wm. HILL.

BOSTON, August 16.

Captain Alden, at New-Bedford, from Cadiz, who sailed June 25, informs, that it was reported that the Spanish cruizers detained all American vessels bound up the Mediterranean, under pretence that they were not furnished with proper Spanish Consular Certificates!! What right have they to exact certificates when a vessel is not bound to a Spanish port?---and when she is, it is for the Custom-House officers to determine whether she is furnished with the proper papers---privateersmen have no concern with her.

The British squadron off Cadiz, June 25, consisted of 5 sail of the line.

It has been mentioned that a Spanish 84 gun ship lately attacked a British frigate. A captain from Cadiz at Newburyport informs, that it was the frigate which attacked the 84, giving her 4 broadsides, and leaving her considerably damaged.

A Spanish ship of 84 guns was spoken about three days sail from Cadiz, early in June. Seventy sail of British transports, &c. from Lisbon for Gibraltar, were then in sight. The 84 was engaged by a frigate, while the transports proceeded and arrived at the place of their destination in safety.

It is not more extraordinary that the combined fleet have escaped Nelson; than that the several very large British fleets of merchantmen, transports, &c. have escaped the combined fleet.

NORFOLK, August 19.

The French Consul in this place, has we understand, received a letter from the French minister at Washington informing, that a letter had been received by him from general Ferrand, which states that the schooner Iris, captain Pearson, captured on her voyage from Porto-Rico, to this port in May last, had been carried into St. Domingo (the city) where she had been tried and acquitted, and the captors condemned to pay damages. We record this act of justice with pleasure, and shall be happy to credit the same account with a similar article in every day's Ledger, until the large balance yet remaining is liquidated.

It is said that orders have been received by the commander of the militia of this place, from the governor of the state, to have the militia ready for immediate service. Similar orders were sent to the commander of the militia at Petersburg, in consequence of a communication received by express from the president of the United States. What all this means, we offer no conjecture, the profound secrecy observed by the administration, and which we have no doubt is very proper, gives us no chance of even passing an opinion. In federal times it was a crime to keep secrets from the people, we are glad to find that the republicans know by this time, that the federalists were not so wicked in this instance, as they were supposed, as our present rulers have followed this example, and surely they can do nothing wrong.

Arrived, ship Monticello, Wilson, 54 days from Cadiz. Left at Cadiz, the ship Old Tom, Wonghop, to sail next day for a market; Argus, Chamberlain, and Three Sisters, Calvett, to sail in 7 days. All the Americans were preparing to leave Cadiz—Off Cadiz was boarded by a frigate belonging to Admiral Collingwood's squadron, treated politely. July 23, lat. 36, long. 54, 30, ship William and Mary, Tipling, 8 days from Norfolk to Teneriffe. August 2, lat. 38, long. 71, 30, the ship Harriet, from Norfolk, to London, 4 days out.

Ship Nancy, Lawrance, 82 days from Montivedo. On the 19th of May the Spanish frigate Alfonzo was lost on the English Bank, in the river La Plate, and 350 of her crew drowned.

On the 4th of July, the ship Planter, Booth, was spoken to the British Channel from London for Norfolk.

The ship America, from this port, for London, was spoken August 4, in lat. 44, long. 58, 13 days out.

The brig Triton, Frazier, from this port, to Cadiz, is detained by the Kent privateer, off Guernsey, and sent into Falmouth.

Captain O'Driscol, arrived at Charleston in 6 days from Havanna, informs, that eight sail of the British homeward bound Jamaica fleet had been captured and sent into the island of Cuba; the ship belonging to Greenock had arrived at Havanna. Captain O'Driscol further informs, that the bye ports of that island are filled with American captured vessels—nothing which is valuable being suffered to pass.

Alexandria Daily Advertiser.

SATURDAY, August 24.

The following extract of a letter, dated London, June 24th, addressed to a friend of the Editor, shews that the precarious situation of affairs between the American and Spanish Governments has already subjected our trade to new inconveniencies.

"At present there are no good frieghts to be had in Europe for vessels under your flag, on account of the Spaniards having lately captured several Americans, laden with British goods, which has occasioned exhorbitant premiums to be demanded, for the insurance. This has been particularly the case, on such as have gone up the straights, for which, within a few days 20 guineas per cent have been given.—— The cargoes of three Americans from Liverpool have been actually condemned, in Spanish ports up the Mediterranean."

We have likewise seen a letter from a gentleman in Laguira, dated July 10 h, detailing a scene of perplexity caused by the capricious management of the Spanish government in that place. On the 2d June, says the letter, all neutrals here received permission to land and sell flour, oil, butter and lard. On the 15th the port was declared shut to neutrals against the importation of every thing, even dollars. On the 18th, all the neutrals in the port, about 12 sail, were permitted to land and sell all their cargoes, English manufactured goods excepted. On the 19th, we began discharging; but the same day the port was declared open, only to the four articles above mentioned. On the 30th a new Tariff was given into the custom house, which fixes the duty on cocoa at 19 per cent, valued at 14 dollars; Coffee the same, & we are allowed to take away any produce we please. On the 5th July, all the ports in the province were pronounced shut, and will not soon be open again. A Danish schooner with dollars was, yesterday ordered away.

(Bost. Rep.)

FROM SPAIN.

The following letter has been received from Spain, by the way of New York. Mr. Bowdon our minister, had arrived at Corunna; Mr. Munroe had left Spain, and Mr. Pinckney, resided at Madrid, as a private citizen. [Ib.

"A singular affair" the letter adds, "lately occurred in the streights of Gibralter; an American gun boat in her passage into the Mediterrannean, was mistaken for English, attacked by the Spanish gunboats, taken and carried into Algeziras.---- The error being discovered she was immediately given up. Our boat having no guns mounted, was unable to resist the assailants, and immediately struck. No lives were lost.

"Cadiz is blockaded by an English squadron, under admiral Collingwood, of seven sail of the line, five frigates and several smaller vessels. They are almost daily in sight; and some times run in near the batteries.

"There are some ships of the line equipping here, one of which is the Santissima Trinidada, of one hundred and forty-four, guns said to be the largest ship in the world——The port is crouded with gun boats but they dare not venture out."

Six or seven persons were yesterday apprehended and committed to prison in this city, detected in a scheme of forgery of bank notes. The engraver to whom they applied listened to them, and after receiving their propositions, immediately committed the design to the banks—by whom he was advised to proceed until they should so far convict themselves as to assure detention and conviction; which was effected; they are secured with their press and plates.

[Aurora.]

A circumstance which created no small disappointment, occurred a few days since, in a neighboring village. The clergyman of the parish had engaged two men to clean out his well, for which they were to be liberally paid, exclusive of what they might find therein; when, after nearly accomplishing their undertaking, they discovered a bottle, in which was contained the following inscription: "Whoever desires to be enriched, let them dig at the west end of the steeple, and they will find 300 marks, deposited there, during the disturbances in Oliver Cromwell's time."—Such an insensible thirst for wealth had their good luck excited, that nothing could induce them to resist recovering the buried property until it was acknowledged to be an hoax, invented by some pupils of the reverend diving. [Eng. pap.]

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in St. Mary's county to his friend in this city, dated July 25, 1805.

"On the 12th inst. there was a negro woman delivered near this of a dead child. Its head, neck and ears resembled those of a squirrel, with a piece of loose skin on its forehead, that by pulling it asunder the teeth appeared resembling those of a squirrel; its body appeared like that of a flying squirrel, with membranes reaching from the fore to the hind legs; the body was covered with hair. Its tail resembled those of our common wild rabbits. The singular and disgusting production was viewed by a number of respectable persons of both sexes." (Nat. Intel.)

From the NEW-ENGLAND REPUBLICAN.

Party Spirit.—To those who value the happiness and well-being of the "Union," it must be a constant source of regret, to behold the rancor of party spirit, so prevalent in this country, which has of late disturbed its political harmony, causing divisions among all classes of our fellow-citizens, creating dissentions in private families, and destroying that mutual confidence between man and man, which is necessary in the daily transactions of society. And this spirit, instead of diminishing every day increases. The fire of revenge is kindling;* and, if once blown into a flame, Heaven only knows how or where the devastation will end! In the present struggle of parties for ascendancy, few seem sufficiently to reflect, that, by our disunion, the national existence is endangered. The old and excellent maxim, "United we stand; divided we fall," was at once the advice, the watch word, and the guide of our fathers: their adherance to it gave them success in every laudable enterprize; but their children, wiser than they, will not heed either their precepts or their example.—— The causes of the dissolution of all ancient and modern republics, have been repeated and dwelt upon by hundreds of our faithful essayists: from the page of history and from the records of our own times, they have portrayed a view of the whole ground, that we might perceive and tremble at the consequence of republican excesses. They have pointed to the ruins of those nations as beacons remaining to warn our citizens from pursuing a like course, and meeting a similar fate. But in vain: there "are none so blind, as those who determine not to see." Many of our crazy-brained, self-interested politicians, boasting of having already made three quarters of the Union proselytes to the doctrines of unrestrained liberty and perfect equality, still persevere in the way they began, endeavouring to gain converts by lying, hypocrisy, defamation, misrepresentation, and low intrigue; and it will alone be owing to the providential care of Him who has heretofore protected us from the arm of tyranny, if they do not succeed in embroiling the country in a civil war. No one but he can say to this overflowing spirit, "Hitherto, shalt thou come but no further; and here shall thy proud waves be stayed."

It would, indeed, be a happy circumstance, if a compromise could be made between the moderate and well meaning of both parties. "An union of all honest men," of whatever religious or political persuasion (and some honest there are, in every society,) must be the first wish of the real patriot. It is the only means by which our rights, our liberties, and our constitutions, can be saved from destruction, and our existence as an independent nation preserved. But so long as our countrymen, neglecting to profit by the examples before them, turn a deaf ear to the admonitions of the wise, drawn from the experience of ages, and persist in defaming, despising and mal-treating each other, for a mere difference in political opinion; so long will the nation be rent by discordant factions;* and anarchy perhaps, with its thousand plagues, will be the just reward of our folly.

But we hope for better things and better times. We cannot but believe, that the major part of our fellow-citizens, when they see the approaching danger of our country, will seek a union of hands and a union of hearts, to elect and support such men as shall preserve the constitution from further innovation, shield our liberties from infringement, save our valuable institutions from subversion, protect our commerce from piratical freebooters, rescue our property from the grasp of the rapacious leveller, suppress all party animosities, and thus "restore harmony to social intercourse."

Meanwhile, let federalists continue exemplary for forbearance, moderation, and subjection to lawful authority. Let them allow their opponents to defame their characters, misrepresent their measures, and brand them with every opprobious name they can invent—Monarchists, Tories, Aristocrats, British Junto, &c. "Names," we should recollect, "alter not things."—— The language of Billingsgate, though it may have assisted them, will never avail us. A cause that can be supported only by such dishonorable means, will not long be successful. A relation of "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," will be sufficient to insure us the final victory. Our cause is the cause of TRUTH and sound principles; and these must ultimately triumph over error and deception.

* Observe well the States of New York, and Pennsylvania.

A love ditty—in the modern style.

Ah! Wilhelmina, never do—
Thou sweeteſt, wittieſt, prettieſt laſs!
Dear Wilhelmina! never view
Thy viſage in the looking-glaſs.

For ſhould'ſt thou, fair one! in the glaſs
Ever behold that face of thine,
Thou never would'ſt I fear, alas!
Again look ſweet on this of mine.

For who can once, too lovely fair!
That ſparkling gem of thine eſpy,
And after, ever feel one care
'Bout viewing any other eye?

Or, ah! enchanting damſel, who
Can ſee that cheek that ſhames the roſe;
Or who that beautious noſe can view,
And ſigh for other cheek or noſe?

Then Wilhelmina never do—
Thou ſweeteſt, wittieſt, prettieſt laſs!
Dear Wilhelmina never view
Thy viſage in the looking glaſs.
